ear Folks,

lease count another of us working stiffs as against expensing stock options for all employees. It would make sense to track ne executive officers of a company, since they are the ones who historically get exorbitant salaries feathered with generous stock ptions and then violate laws. However, please do not make the rank and file employees pay for the sins of the greedy by taking way a valued incentive and a way for average people to have a viable way to feel invested in their company and make some nodest discretionary income.

Fordially, Farbara J. Gurnari
